Squadron Web Site Personal Information and/or Image Use Release

The USPS national ITCOM department has requested that each local squadron obtain written permission from squadron members for the use of members personal information and/or photographs on squadron web sites. This could include a member's name and rank, address, phone number, email address, boat name, individual/group photo, or other information or images. The PBPS.us webmaster makes every effort to limit the published information to include only that which is necessary to show a substantial community, organizational and web presence and facilitate contact with squadron leadership.

Below are descriptions of typical web postings, but circumstances may cause variations.

- Committee members and aides are generally listed by name only, with no contact information.
- Bridge members are generally listed with a photo, contact phone number and/or email address.
- Instructors generally appear with a contact phone number in the course schedule.
- Individual or group photos from events will appear without the subject's identity specified.
- Other circumstances may arise that require variations from the above examples.

Initial below

- I approve use of my name and rank in appropriate squadron web postings.
- I approve use of my phone number in appropriate squadron web postings.
- I approve use of my email address in appropriate squadron web postings.
- I approve use of my mailing address in appropriate squadron web posting.
- I approve use of my photograph in appropriate squadron web postings.
- I approve use of any information or photograph that the webmaster deems appropriate for a particular squadron web posting.

If I judge the information is posted in an inappropriate manner I may change my choices at any time. (See below)

I have read the above, understand it, initialed where required to indicate my preferences and I am aware that I may retract this permission at any time by contacting the webmaster, who will make every effort to comply with my wishes in a timely manor.
